URGENT CONVENTION HERE

Association Adopts Resolution
Asking State Meeting in 1923
Come to Bismarck

The offer made by the executive council of the North Dakota Bankers' Association to pay taxes on the same basis as other business houses although under the supreme court decision they were freed from a major part of taxation for the last two years was unanimously approved by the Missouri Slope group of the association in meeting here.

The taxation settlement plan was explained in detail by A. G. Dret, attorney for the association, and following explanation and discussion the bankers adopted resolutions stating that while they could escape taxation under the supreme court decision they did not want to avoid burden of taxation, and approved the plan of settlement on the basis of other business houses.

Serious complications might arise unless the plan for settlement is accepted, the bankers were told.

The meeting was the largest gathering of the Slope bankers held in several years. It was said one of the resolutions adopted by the bankers urged that the 1923 convention of the state bankers' association meet in Bismarck. This resolution will be presented at the state meeting in Minot in June. The Bismarck bankers were thanked for hospitality shown during the session here.

Endorse Road Body

A resolution was adopted endorsing the North Dakota Good Roads Association "and its meritorious measures to safeguard Federal aid for the proposed state highway system." The resolution specifically mentioned the constitutional amendment and the two laws which the good roads association proposes to initiate next November, urged the revision of the motor vehicle license law and a motor fuel tax of one cent a gallon in lieu of the present tax on gasoline, and declared that there is grave danger of losing Federal aid unless this action is taken. It was pointed out that the people of North Dakota pay in federal taxes $3,000,000 annually, and through federal aid for highways over one-third of this amount would be returned to the state. The resolutions committee was composed of L. R. Baird, of Dickinson, A. H. Peterson and J. D. Rempel.

W. B. DeLull, manager of the farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota, explained in detail the system of state farm loans and urged the support of the bankers in the making of safe loans. W. C. McFadden praised the Cass County Development Association and urged that similar county associations be formed for the purpose of reducing the size of North Dakota farms and encouraging immigration.

John Haw, of the agricultural college, talked upon diversification, and asked the bankers to urge the right kind of diversification. He predicted that with diversification there is a great future for farming in western North Dakota. He urged that the products of the land be taken first as a basis for the right kind of diversification, and that livestock be kept on the farm in the proportion to the amount that can be properly fed and cared for upon the farm's products. He held there could be too much diversification.

Farm Bank Loans

The Federal Farm Loan Bank, of St. Paul, has seven appraisers working in North Dakota at the present time according to Paul A. Preus, treasurer of the bank, here to attend the Bankers' meeting. Appraisers only recently were put into the field again in North Dakota.

The recent bonds sale of the farm loan bank amounted to $7,500,000. Mr. Preus said, this amount is divided between four states so that on an equal basis the land bank can close over $1,800,000 of loans in North Dakota before there is another bond sale. North Dakota now has 40 percent of the money loaned in the four states under the bank's jurisdiction. He said it is expected, he said, that the bank will loan $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 this year.

FEAR CHILDREN
DIE IN FIRE

Clinton, Ia., April 19.—Several children were injured, some possibly fatally, when the chimney of the Irving school collapsed this morning. A fire broke out immediately, fanned by high winds. It is feared some of the children are buried in the ruins.

VOTE SCHOOL BONDS.

Williston, N. D., April 19.—Alred school district in McKenzie county has voted an $80,000 bond issue for the purpose of taking up outstanding warrants. The voters also approved the proposition to raise the debt limit from 5 percent of the assessed valuation of the district and making it 10 percent.

CLUB ADOPTS MEMPHIS "TUBE BABY"

Left, Gaston Rutledge being fed through a tube into his abdomen. Center, Gaston at play—the tube through which he's fed can be seen protruding from his collar.

By NEA Service

Memphis, April 19.—Gaston Rutledge, 3, Memphis' noted "tube baby" and doubtless the world's most unusual child, has been adopted by the local Kiwanis Club.

Members of the club have agreed to finance an operation by skilled surgeons that they hope will save Gaston's life and enable him to eat like other children.

For more than a year the boy has not tasted food.

Swallowed Lye

A year ago Gaston, son of a Memphis auto mechanic, swallowed lye that he found while playing in the yard of his home. The powerful chemical seared his throat, and stricture developed that closed the throat completely.

Gaston was slowly starving to death when surgeons cut through his abdomen into his stomach and inserted a rubber tube. When he is hungry, a nurse pours milk through this tube into his stomach.

The surgeons agreed that Gaston could not grow up with this plan of feeding and live. They probed the seared throat, thinking at first they could reopen it. But this hope proved vain.

"The only way we can save him is by building a new esophagus—the passage from the throat to the stomach," the surgeons said.

And that's the delicate operation the Kiwanis Club will have performed. The new esophagus will be built from part of an intestine. It will be brought up from the stomach, over the breast bone and just under the skin to a point below Gaston's chin where it will join his throat.

That operation can't take place until Gaston becomes well and strong. So the Kiwanis Club is having him carefully nursed and is giving him every attention regardless of expense.

If the operation fails, Gaston probably will die. But Gaston's mind is filled with more pleasant thoughts. "By day he rides about in an auto with his nurse."

And by night he dreams of the candy and cookies and apples he hopes he'll eat some day.

CHILDREN GIVE
AID TO VICTIMS OF DISASTER

Bucharest, April 19.—(By the A. P.)—Children in a village school near Bucharest have contributed $3.00 in Roumanian lire to aid the children of families made destitute by the destruction of the Knickerbocker theater in Washington, D. C.

Unable to visualize the vast extent of the United States the youngsters believed the collapse of the theater was a disaster affecting the entire American people. Roumanian children have received much help from little Americans through the Junior Red Cross and they chose this method of showing their appreciation.

Disaster Feared in Europe Unless Way Is Sought Out of Difficulty

Genoa, April 19.—(By the A. P.)—Dr. Walter Rathenau, the German foreign minister, conferred with Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Catterin of Russia today regarding the barring of the Germans from the Russian commission of the conference. The Germans will probably submit a formal reply tonight to the allied note on this subject.

DISASTER FEARED

Genoa, April 19.—The warning rumble of an impending reign of bankruptcy and anarchy in Europe unless wise and careful action is taken to curb the financial situation broke in upon the bickering of delegates to the economic conference today. The warning was contained in the report of the special board of eminent experts.

Hopes were voiced today that an international monetary convention with the United States represented as suggested by the experts will soon be convened to examine the financial position of the whole world.

The board declared that victors and vanquished in the war must find means of counter-acting the growth in the volume of outstanding money and government obligations and the accompanying high prices. They insisted that unless remedies like increased production and taxation were applied the depreciation in money would wipe out the savings of the past and lead to chaos.

NOTE IS MODIFIED

Genoa, April 19.—(By the A. P.)—Commenting on the note sent by the allies to Germany yesterday the entire allied press is agreed that the note suggested by Premier Lloyd George was much stronger than the one actually sent.

The note was modified in tone chiefly through conciliatory efforts of Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy who pointed out that all the delegates wanted was to prevent the breaking up of the conference.

UP TO REPARATIONS COMMISSION

Paris, April 19.—(By the A. P.)—The reparations commission is to be asked to consider whether the Russo-German treaty signed at Rapallo Sunday violates the treaty of Versailles in respect to the German owned property in Russia. This property under the Versailles pact is pledged to the commission for payment of reparations.

Andrew Tardieu today served official notice on Premier Poincare that he would present an interpellation in the Chamber as soon as it reconvenes upon "the measures the government intends to take in the face of the menace to France as constituted by the German-Russian treaty."

Melodia, Ill., April 19.—(By the A. P.)—The levee of the Melodia lake drainage district broke this afternoon flooding 8,000 acres of wheat land and the homes of more than 50 families.

Cairo, Ill., April 19.—The steamer Three Stars was scheduled to leave here this morning for the Dog Tooth bend district between Cairo and Payville, Illinois, to administer aid to 150 negro families who are reported marooned by flood waters of the Mississippi river. Relief investigators who made the report after visiting the district declared that several families were in a panic condition. Food, tents and medical supplies were to be taken to the district by the steamer.

It was said the district was inundated so unexpectedly that most of the inhabitants were unaware of the oncoming waters and were unable to flee. They were reported to be taking refuge in the highest part of the slacks.

ILLINOIS TOWN IS ISOLATED

Beardstown, Ill., April 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Gradual isolation of the town of Beardstown was carried a step further this morning when it was announced that all telephone communities with Schuler and Brown counties had been cut off. Rail communication with these counties and the country west and north was suspended two days ago.

BURLEIGH COUNTY FIGHT MAY GO TO FLOOR; COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS
DIVISION OF TWO DELEGATIONS

Would Seat Burleigh Delegates on 50-50 Basis—State Committee
In Session Preliminary to Opening of Convention Makes an Attempt to Reach Harmony by Agreeing Upon Selection of a Temporary Chairman—McCumber Men Claim Control—
Fusionists Control Democratic Convention

Jamestown, N. D., April 19.—At a late hour this afternoon the republican state central committee was hearing representatives of different factions in an effort to reach complete harmony of the election of a chairman for the convention.

The convention had not been called to order at 3:30 p. m. Chairman Spalding sent a message to the convention shortly after 2 o'clock in which he stated that the committee had finished with the Burleigh county matter and was now concerned with bigger things. The bigger things, he explained, was that the factions would reach some agreement on the business of continuing the work of "cleaning up North Dakota" and a settlement of the situation on which all could unite.

The entire morning was given over to the conflicting claims of two delegations from Burleigh county for seats in the convention. This delayed the opening of the convention, which was scheduled for 10 o'clock. The possibility that the 14 votes from Burleigh county might be an important factor in determining fights in the convention caused an especially strong fight to be made by both sides for the seating of their delegation. The McCumber faction declared they acted under motions put before E. J. Fogarty, of Sterling, chairman of the Republican organization in Burleigh county, who called the convention. Mr. Fogarty was present to give the facts upholding this convention. The anti-McCumber faction held that Theodore Koffel, district committeeman, had the right to call the convention and said they acted on recognition of him as chairman. The hearing was before the state central committee.

There were indications about 3 o'clock that the contest between the Burleigh county delegations would be taken out on the floor of the convention.

FARMERS' WORK IS DELAYED BY COLD WEATHER

Reports to Agricultural College
Say Operations Delayed
For Another Week

Fargo, April 19.—Seeding operations and other field work in North Dakota is delayed from two to three weeks this spring and will not be general for at least another week, according to reports from 24 county agents to the agricultural college here. These reports take no account of yesterday's snowfall throughout the state. Seeding is usually in full swing in this state April 10. Mr. Haw declared in making public the report. These show the northeastern and south central parts of the state to be the only ones where any material amount of seeding has been done.

Decreases in wheat acreage ranging from 15 to 25 per cent are generally reported. This, county agents say, is because farmers fear that wheat planted now will not do well. They point out that this factor will increase diversification.

The general report based on county agent returns continues: Pasture crops are coming through in good shape and sweet clover and alfalfa have already begun spring growth and that spring rye already over the state is looking fine.

Emmon county reports that half of the wheat seeding has been finished. Seeding had started in the Missouri Slope district and some has been finished in the northeastern part of the state. With these exceptions reports show that only in isolated cases has any seeding been done.

320 INJURED
IN STORMS

Toll of Dead Is Now Placed At 32 Persons

Chicago, April 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The terrific storms sweeping eastward across the country, which in some parts of the central states became tornadoes, resulting in at least 32 persons killed, two missing, 320 injured and several millions of dollars damage to property, according to reports from the stricken areas.

The 320 listed thus far as injured include only those in towns which felt the full effect of the storms. Scores of others in sections which were not in the tornado belts were hurt and the total is believed to be beyond the 500 mark.

50-50 SPLIT

The state central committee after a protracted session decided to report to the convention seating a half of each delegation. This case which held up the morning work resulted from having a county chairman and a county committee in some of the districts where the county and legislative districts coincide in a territory.

One delegation came to the convention under credentials signed by the county chairman and the other under credentials signed by the county committeemen. The committee in its investigation failed to find a basis of facts or a "Treadwell" Twelfth of Cass county, a member of the committee said: "It seems that both sides have broken the rules."

McCumber Men See Control

The McCumber men claimed control of the convention, and were ready to talk of methods by which harmony might be brought out of the bitter pre-convention fight.

The Democrats in their convention named John Fried of Jamestown, as their chairman and Mrs. John Gammon, of Fargo, secretary of the committee of 45, as secretary. Delegates in favor of fusion were in control of the convention. Upon completing organization this convention recessed until afternoon.

Prevent Endorsement

Endorsement of a candidate for United States Senator by the Anti-McCumber delegates in their caucus here last night and this morning was prevented "the element in the caucus who demanded that the state ticket be named before the fight for the senatorship be taken up. A resolution was passed, embodying this thought and later another resolution was passed endorsing the man whom the State Central Committee might propose for the position of chairman of the convention.

A resolution, condemning Senator McCumber for combination with the Nonpartisan League, for failing to recognize the republican committee headed by B. F. Spaulding, but recognizing the committee headed by Wm. Lemke and for his distribution of patronage was presented to the convention and was warmly supported. The resolution finally was laid on the table, as being opposed to the naming of the state ticket without opposition.

The caucus was opened by the presentation of the facts and figures of the last several conventions by Theodore Nelson secretary of the Independent Voters' Association. Mr. Nelson presented the figures to show the necessity of combinations between the Republicans and the Democrats if the league was to be defeated in the primary and fall elections. On being asked specifically concerning the senatorial condition, Mr. Nelson presented the figures of the last election to show that the addition of another candidate would tend to throw the election to any man supported by a strong faction. The caucus seemed to understand Mr. Nelson's position as opposed to the endorsement of a candidate at the convention.

Norton Presents Claims

Following the close of his presentation of facts, Attorney Shipboy of Hope presented his resolution against McCumber, the first draft containing the charge that the anti-McCumber delegates endorse Judge A. M. Christensen for the office of United States senator. Upon presentation by P. D. Norton of his claims that he should have the honor of having his name presented to the convention, this part of the resolution was eliminated, and as finally tabled the resolution contained only the most emphatic disapproval of the conduct of McCumber.

tion. J. D. Bacon stated that the committee was considering the presentation to the convention of the names of Senators Davis and Hyland. It was considered that the man selected from these two men would be fair to both the factions represented in the convention.
Considerable opposition was voiced on the floor to the fact that the McCumber forces were signing up delegates upon the consideration of the senatorship alone, in an attempt to control the convention upon that issue instead of upon the issue of opposition to the Nonpartisan League.

HOW IT LOOKED LAST NIGHT.

(By the Associated Press.)
Jamestown, N. D., April 19.—Whether an additional candidate will be put into the field for the Republican nomination for United States senator from North Dakota will be decided here at the Republican state convention.
Hope was expressed by political leaders here that the convention would unite on one man to oppose Lynn J. Frazier, candidate of the Nonpartisan League for the Republican nomination, and that candidates of the progressive wing of the party would be eliminated.
Senator Porter J. McCumber and his manager, R. J. Hughes, have announced that the McCumber forces would not be bound by acts of the convention and that the senator would be a candidate regardless of whether the convention endorsed him.
The name of Justice A. M. Christianson of the state supreme court is mentioned as a candidate for the senatorship if the convention fails to support McCumber. Justice Christianson, however, in a letter made public, stated he was not a candidate for the nomination.

Democrats Also Meet.

While the Republicans are holding their convention in one hall, the Democrats will meet in state convention in another, with a possibility that amenities looking toward a united front in opposition to the Nonpartisan League will be exchanged by the two bodies. Wesley McDowell and J. F. T. O'Connor are prominently mentioned candidates for the senatorship endorsement of the Democrats.

Indications are that the Republican state ticket, with the governorship, will be completed before the question of the senatorship is allowed to appear before the convention.

The North Dakota state central committee, the Republican members of the committee in charge of the independent voters association and a number of prominent delegates, in a conference held at Fargo, decided that if it were possible the state ticket would be named first.

This action is said to be due to the fact that in the last national election 22,500 voters passed by the national and congressional tickets in North Dakota and commenced to vote when the office of governor was reached on the ballot.

Thus far, no opposition has developed to the naming of R. A. Nestos, the first governor in the history of the United States to be elected in a recall election, as the leader of the state ticket.

Senatorship Sole Topic.

The one topic of conversation in the lobbies here was the senatorship. The anti-McCumber sentiment crystallized in a caucus held in the afternoon and another held in the evening, in which the sentiments of the progressive Republicans of the state against the senator were voiced, with some speakers in his favor.

Delegates from the strictly rural sections of the state were prominent in these discussions, declaring that it would be impossible to get the Republican anti-League farmers to vote for McCumber, either in the June primaries or the November election.

The McCumber forces countered these with a statement by Hughes that Senator McCumber, as chairman of the finance committee, was in a position to be of benefit to the farmers because of the placing of tariff measures.

DEMOCRATS IN SCRAP

Jamestown, N. D., April 19.—A lively scrap marked the Democratic caucus last night. The expected fight between the so-called "fusionists" and "anti-fusionists" coming to the fore. There was a caucus last attended by 150 Democrats in which there were lively tilts between the various members of contending delegations. A "vote of confidence" was given Attorney-General Sveinbjorn Johnson following attacks because of his alleged attitude toward fusion. Among those recorded as "anti-fusionists" were: P. P. Perry and G. S. Woledge, of Minot; J. C. McAndrews, Fargo; Fred McLean, of Cavalier. The opposition was led by Joe Kelly, of Devils Lake.

It appeared that the fight might reach a stage where there would be no Democratic nomination for United States Senator. The name of J. F. T. O'Connor, as the Democratic in-dorsee, was frequently heard. It was reported that Mr. O'Connor did not relish the idea and that Wesley McDowell and F. O. Hellstrom might go into the primary as candidates for the nomination.

Reports of Boys Work Given Today

The regular weekly meeting of the Bismarck Rotary club was held at the McKenzie hotel this noon. The meeting was taken up with a report of the finances of the boys' welfare department by the secretary, Raymond Bergeson, and by a report by J. J. MacLeod, director of boy's work. He outlined the many activities that have been begun during the past year and briefly told the tentative plans for the ensuing year.

The committee in charge of boys work have decided to inaugurate a similar act for the girls under the direction of Mr. MacLeod.

Book Drive Is Planned For May

Miss Mary E. Downey, state librarian, left this noon for Dickinson to visit the library there. Miss Downey visited in Fargo last week and while there arranged for a "Library Book Drive" to be held in the high schools and junior high school of Fargo the first week in May. The school people were very enthusiastic about the drive and it is expected about 60,000 books will be collected in Fargo to be used in the libraries of the Fargo high schools and in the Public Library. The high school library burned with the school house some years ago but they have the beginning of a splendid library, said Miss Downey. The surplus will be taken to the state library commission and distributed in other libraries.

Miss Downey said that there was great activity over the state establishing many new libraries. The Library Commission have received many letters from women's clubs and high schools asking for information on starting libraries.

We have just received a shipment of live lobster, direct from the coast of Maine, which we are serving in our dining room at reasonable prices. We will receive a shipment every week. —McKenzie Hotel.

Gentlemen:

We had samples of our most popular washable silks. Each sample was given the number of launderings it would receive as a garment.

The silks were in excellent condition at the end of the tests. The silks did not "nap up" nor did the creases de Chine pull or look "wavy" as they often do after washing. The colors remained clear throughout. A strong soap will often fade colors—it is ruinous to silk fibre as well, weakening it, and causing it to wear out more quickly.

The results obtained with Lux speak for themselves, but we should like to say that we feel our success with it is due only in part to its flake form. The chief element is its absolute mildness and purity which permits the sheenest and most delicately colored wash-silks to be laundered with it in entire safety.

Very truly yours,

"THE DOCTRINE OF COERCION" ANCIENT LAW

Lady Astor Introduces a Bill in House of Commons To Amend Offending Statute

SIMILAR MEASURE—LORDS

London, April 19.—Discovery of an ancient Saxon law, technically known as 'the doctrine of coercion,' under which a wife is virtually the property of her husband, has precipitated a storm in both houses of the British Parliament.

Lady Astor has formally introduced a bill in the House of Commons to amend the offending statute and Viscount Ullswater strongly pressed for a similar measure in the House of Lords.

Parliament took note of the act when a member of the Commons pointed out that it had been resurrected to secure the acquittal recently of the wealthy Mrs. Peel, who was concerned with her husband in betting frauds, while the husband himself was sent to prison.

The old law, Viscount Ullswater explained to the Lords, was founded on the assumption that a wife would not dare to contradict her husband; "but if we want to maintain respect for the law," he said, "it must be strictly in accordance with our lives and our social relations. Whatever the legal presumption may have been in the olden times, there can be no such presumption today."

"It connotes an inferior and degrading status which women of the present day will never accept. The whole tendency of modern thought has been in the other direction—to elevate the status of women and put them on the same footing as men."

The Viscount raised laughter when he continued: "I appeal to the ripe experience of any of our lordships. Bachelors with no experience of women are the only people who take an opposite view," and he pointed out that the doctrine did not prevail in Scotland, "presumably because of Lady Macbeth," he said.

Defends Existing Law.
Lord Buckmaster, a former Lord High Chancellor, defended the existing law. He said it was his firm conviction that the bulk of women today acted under the direction of their husbands, and this, he held, was assuredly true among the lower ranks of society. "I am not prepared to destroy what has been established by the wisdom of our ancestors, who knew as much about men and women as we do today," he declared. "Women have got the vote but they are just the same as before."

Here the present Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead, spoke up. "As to husbands controlling their wives," he said, "every man has his own experience in these matters and I am not bold enough to make any such claim."

Lord Aberdeen, a former lord lieutenant of Ireland and ex-governor general of Canada, reflectively observed that one of his ancestors, when chancellor of Scotland, resigned office rather than carry out an act which proposed to make husbands responsible for their wives' non-attendance at church.

Lady Frances Balfour, president of the National Council of Women of Great Britain and Ireland, writing in the Times, calls attention to the fact that the "doctrine of coercion" is not the only survival of ancient English laws affecting married women. She cites the "law of coverture," according to which a man and his wife are one person and the husband is that person. "The wife's legal existence is incorporated and consolidated into that of her husband."

Lady Frances pointed out that it is no more than 30 years since the House of Lords negatived a claim that a husband had the right to imprison his wife, which was based on this doctrine, which has, however, never been abolished in its entirety.

At the same time, she proceeds, a wife's position as her husband's property is still in practice, as, for example, when she is not allowed to decide for herself, like other adults, whether or not she shall submit to a surgical operation. Her husband must first give his consent.

These doctrines, which belong to an age of servitude and serfdom should be explicitly annulled by legislation, Lady Frances declared.

Tips On Business

United States now dominates the world steel market. Fear of foreign competition in steel export trade is rapidly vanishing. America is underselling every European country except Belgium, in nearly every branch of steel exports. Belgium's productive capacity is not large enough to worry about. Before the war, Germany dominated world steel exports.

WORKING HARDER.

Employment in the iron and steel industry gained 5.13 per cent in March, says the Bureau of Labor. This indicates increasing labor productivity, for pig iron output increased 13 per cent in March, while steel ingot production gained 35 per cent.

STRIKE'S EFFECT.

Steel manufacturers fear that the coal strike, by shutting off coke supply, may check the big boom in the steel industry.

Steel ingot production now is at a rate of 35,000,000 tons a year, or about a sixth larger than any pre-war year. Carnegie steel is running 85 per cent capacity.

CIGARET LAG.

Cigaret production is running a fourth less than a year ago and a tenth below 1920.

MORE MAIL ORDERS.

Sears-Roebuck mail order sales in March totaled $16,801,601 against $12,413,308 in February. It's the custom-

Woodrow Wilson, upper left, and center. Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to Wilson as president. Around these are one-time friends with whom the ex-president "broke." ## By NEA Service

Washington, April 19.—Is Joseph P. Tumulty admitted to membership in the Ex-Friends of Woodrow Wilson Club? If so, he has joined a large and famous group.

At the National Democratic Club's dinner in New York, Tumulty caused this message to be read as coming from Woodrow Wilson:

"Say to the Democrats of New York that I am ready to support any man who stands for the salvation of America, and the salvation of America is justice to all classes."

A few days later, Wilson wrote to a New York paper:

"I notice an article headed 'DOUBT IS CAST ON WILSON MESSAGE' TO THE COX DINNER. I write to say there need be no doubt about the matter. I did not send any message whatever to that dinner nor authorize anyone to convey a message. I hope that you will be kind enough to publish this letter."

Tumulty's comment on the repudiation was:

"If Mr. Wilson says the message was unauthorized then I can only say I deeply regret the misunderstanding which has arisen between us. I certainly would not have given the message if I had not believed it to be authorized."

The message and its repudiation has created a stir.

Others who have figured in "breaks" with Wilson are: LINDLEY M. GARRISON, who resigned as secretary of war in February, 1918, over differences in policy.

WILLIAM F. McCOMBS, Democratic national committee chairman in 1912, who disagreed on "patronage matters."

COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY, now ambassador to Great Britain.

COLONEL HENRY WATTERSON, who sided with Harvey.

COLONEL E. M. HOUSE, unofficial adviser who broke with Wilson over foreign policies.

ROBERT LANSING, who resigned as secretary of state after a split on governmental policies.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, who resigned as secretary of state due to differences culminating in attitude toward sinking of the Lusitania.

the city auditor and street commissioner from $145 to $135 a month. The city treasurer was cut $5.00 a month, and the members will receive $25.00 per.

Other cuts will be effected down the line, it is said.

The commission adjourned to meet on April 26 when the list of city appointments will be announced.

Alison Cary, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Cary, arrived in Mandan yesterday from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he had been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Wm. Little, and with other relatives for several weeks. Mr. Cary, who has been in California since his graduation from Leland Stanford last June, made the trip up the east coast by boat from Tampico, Mexico, where he had gone for a visit with a school friend.

Miss Cecile Peters and her cousin, Miss Agnes Johnson, who is teaching school at New Salem, have left for Flasher where they will visit friends.

Miss Margaret Gibson has returned to Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., after spending her vacation at her home here.

Major A. B. Welch has returned from Fargo where he attended a meeting of the executive committee of the North Dakota department of the N. D. N. G.

Mrs. H. D. Taylor and daughter, Mrs. Carl Summark have gone to Minneapolis where they will visit relatives.

Mrs. Wm. Peterson and son and her mother, Mrs. E. D. Yarle of Laurel, Montana, are guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Peterson. They are enroute home from Fargo, where they had been to attend the funeral of Mrs. L. E. Yarle, which was held on Saturday. Mrs. Peterson and her mother are former Mandan residents.

THE BROOK'S SONG

(Florence Bonner.)

Laughing all the happy day,
Swift I travel on my way;
To the river side,
Joyfully I glide;
Not a minute do I loiter,
Not a second do I falter,
Couldn't tho I tried.

You may think I'm very small,
Scarcely any use at all;
But you would be wrong,
Since my happy song,
Keeps the old mill wheel a turning,
While the water it is churning,
As I rush along.

There's a lesson you may take,
From the music that I make,
Be a worker, too,
World has need of you!
And my brothers in the oar,
Keep the world in locomotion,
You will find this true!

the summer months and for skating during the winter.

In the way of girls' athletics we have basketball, gymnastic dancing and tennis. For the boys we have football, track, basketball and tennis. Our school is a member of the Inter-State Athletic Conference and our teams meet representatives of such schools as Jamestown College, Concordia College and the State Normal School at Moorhead.

We have many social doings throughout the year, some in connection with the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. some with the Literary societies and some under the direction of the school as a whole. Each class gives at least one big party during the year.

Yes, we have a fine Y. W. C. A. organization which helps the girls of the school wonderfully. When a girl first enters school it extends to her a hand of welcome and friendship, not only when she gets off the train but when she is arranging her work and getting settled in her new home. The Y. W. C. A. meets every Sunday afternoon. Men of the faculty and prominent business men of Valley City address these meetings on some occasions while members of the association furnish numbers for other programs.

The students of our State Teachers' College regularly support four Literary Societies. The Athenaeum, Clifton, and Philomathian Societies maintained for exercises in essay, debates and parliamentary practice, are open to young women. The young men of the school maintain the E. B. C. Society for the same purpose.

We have a very fine Music Department under excellent supervision. Of our Glee Club, Band, Lecture Course Numbers, Oratorical Contests and prizes, Dramatic Club and other social doings I will write later on in the spring.

We are writing this in order that

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

PLANS TO USE "COW BILL" ACT

Williston, N. D., April 19.—As a means of socking northwestern North Dakota with more dairy cattle, local dairymen plan to take advantage of the cow bill, passed by the legislature, providing that where petitions are presented to the county commissioners by not less than 50 free holders, the commissioners are permitted to help finance the purchase of dairy cows for farmers, provided these farmers shall have first organized themselves into associations for the protection of the credits extended to them in this matter. Such a petition is being circulated in Williams county.

Original Sketches To Be Exhibited

An exhibition of original colored crayon and charcoal sketches by Anna Mulo Upjohn will be given in Bismarck April 24 to 26th, in the basement of the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Junior Red Cross. The first exhibition of the collection was held in the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington last spring and was so pronounced a success it was determined to send the pictures on a tour of the country for exhibition where they might be studied by school children.

This is practically the first art exhibit ever given primarily for children and it is made up of a unique collection of drawings of child life in Albania, Czechoslovakia, Albania, France, Greece, Italy, Montenegro, Roumania, Serbia. The purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint the public with Miss Upjohn's portrayal of child life in those countries where through relief and educational projects American children are being introduced to their neighbors, and in turn are acquiring an understanding of those far-away children.

Mrs. D. B. Register of the local Junior Red Cross is in charge of the exhibit and through the co-operation of Miss Edna Dent Martin, a schedule will be arranged so that every child in Bismarck will view the pictures. A display of toys and handwork of children of several of these European countries will also be shown at the exhibit.

Division Gives Birthday Party

The Ladies A.I. of the McCabe Methodist church cordially invite every lady to attend the birthday party given by the third division of the church on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. A splendid program has been prepared and refreshments will be served.

The following invitations have been sent to members of the aid:

Wife's going to have a party. Full of fun and mirth.

So bring a penny for each year. You've lived on this good old earth just put your pennies in this sack. Involve your friends—Oh, quite a few. To help swell the crowd and enjoy the cuts.

At M. E. Church, April 20th, 1922.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

Miss Helen Breen was honor guest at a shower last evening given by the Mesdames Ethel Dahl and Margaret Engleman. Miss Breen received many beautiful gifts. Sixteen friends from both Mandan and Bismarck were present and part of the evening was spent making and installing hot dish holders for the bride-to-be. A dainty lunch was served and a good time enjoyed by all. The wedding of Miss Helen Breen and Roy D. Kennelly will take place on May 8th. Mr. Kennelly is a member of the firm and traveling representative of the Mundan Beverage Company, Mandan.

TO BE INSTALLED IN MAY

Rev. Albert Deutsch, O. S. B., well known in the western part of the state, will be installed as Abbot of St. John's Academy, Collegeville, Minnesota, on May 3. Dr. F. B. Strauss, of Bismarck, who was a classmate of Rev. Deutsch at St. John's university, has received a formal announcement of the installation.

WORKMEN ENTERTAINED

The members of the Degree of Honor entertained the workmen in the auditorium of St. Mary's school last night. A "Penny Auction" furnished much amusement and was the feature of the evening's entertainment. Cards were played and a lovely lunch was served.

GIVE THEATER PARTY

The Mesdames Mildred Eger, Lucile Hall, Ida Iverson and Grace Fraser entertained a number of friends at a theater party at the Eltinge theater Monday evening. Following the show the guests went to the apartment of Miss Eger where a waffle supper was enjoyed.

BENEFIT PICTURE NEXT WEEK

"The Old Oaken Bucket," a returned travelers dream of home, will be shown at the Capitol theater next Monday and Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Women's Community Council for the benefit of the undernourished children of the city.

RETURNS TO HOME

Mrs. E. D. Lundeen returned to her home at Fergus Falls, Minn., this morning, after a several weeks visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ebert. A large number of functions were given in honor of Mrs. Lundeen during her visit here.

LEAVE FOR MILWAUKEE

Bishop Wehrli of the city and Nick Resler, a Mandan architect, left yesterday for Milwaukee, Wis., where they will attend to matters in connection with the proposed new cathedral to be erected here.

DIVISIONS MEET AT SCHOOL

The first and second division of St. Mary's Sewing Circle will meet at the school auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. E. C. White and Mrs. Grady will be the hostesses.

MINOT BUSINESS VISITORS

Dr. Dwir of Minot, and E. R. Sinkler, also of that city, are in the city on business.

VISITS BROTHER HERE

W. J. Robinson of Alexander, N. D., visited here yesterday with his brother, er, Roy C. Robinson of the McKenzie hotel. Mr. Robinson was on his way to Jamestown as a delegate to the political convention.

VISITED IN CITY

Mrs. Perry Wahl of Cannon Ball, N. D., visited friends in Bismarck yesterday. Mr. Wahl came to Bismarck from Washburn yesterday and they left this morning for Washburn to visit at the home of relatives.

HOLDS OPEN MEETING

The Trades and Labor Union will hold an open meeting on Monday night, May 1. Following the regular business meeting the ladies have been invited to enjoy the dancing, cards and refreshments.

DIVISION WILL MEET

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

WHICH IS MORE IMPORTANT?

Outside of the professional politician, the average voter is not intensely interested in the senatorial contest, but he is vitally concerned with the future of North Dakota. A majority of the voters do not want to return to the domination of the nonpartisan league nor do they desire to have any other clique or faction fasten upon the state an expensive Utopian program.

The people of the state generally are satisfied with the progress made toward normalcy. They realize that the work has hardly been started. Neither is the hold of the independents upon the reins of state government any too secure. There is still a vigorous minority who want to see the rule of the league returned.

Confronted with such a situation, the conflict for senatorial honors has a deep significance. If bitterness and strife is stirred up at Jamestown, there cannot be a united front against the league in the June primaries. That there should be such a front is vital, so vital in fact that many leaders are ready to ignore the senatorial fight and allow it to be fought out without involving state issues.

The professional politicians, however, who are nursing grudges because of unrequited political ambitions are willing to wreck what has been accomplished in bringing voters of one mind on state issues together, so that if possible they can add another political scalp to their belt.

It may be possible that the I. V. A. organization is strong enough to dictate a senatorial nomination hostile to McCumber and still maintain the equilibrium of its state machine fashioned to fight the encroachments of the league.

The Duluth Herald has this very significant comment to make:

"The I. V. A. faction of North Dakota Republicanism meets in Jamestown this week and all the signs point to a lively fight between the friends and enemies of Senator McCumber. The convention may select a new candidate or it may decide that the state and party is of more importance than factional interests and give tacit support to McCumber. But whether it does or not news trickling here from the outside indicates that the real battle at the June primaries will be between Ex-Governor Frazier, backed by the Nonpartisans, and McCumber. As the Fargo Forum says, 'Some clear thinking on the part of the independent Republicans is needed.'"

Caucuses and conventions throughout the state clearly indicate that Senator McCumber has a large following among some of the most ardent supporters of the Anti-Townley, Anti-Socialist machine. These followers are divided into two sides; one want an endorsement out of the Jamestown convention while the other would be satisfied if the convention would confine its deliberations solely to state issues and relieve the convention of the embarrassments that always follow when a house is divided against itself.

Resolutions adopted at the various county conventions showed practically a unanimous feeling toward the state administration and a willingness to get behind the Anti-Townley, Anti-Socialist program. But there are some bitter enders who want McCumber's scalp and are willing to hazard the chances of returning the Nestos regime to get it.

Against such extremists, the Jamestown convention has its hardest battle. Once they are subdued and either an endorsement of McCumber given or a "hands off" policy decided upon, equilibrium will be established and the harmony necessary to win in the primaries against the league will follow. With the independent forces torn into factions over the senatorial fight, the campaign against Townleyism and the league will be weakened considerably.

A SATISFACTORY SOLUTION

The city commission, in purchasing a fire truck with which the present apparatus can be utilized, has reached a solution of a vexing problem which ought to be satisfactory to most taxpayers at this time. If there has been one demand of every branch of our government more insistent than any other demand it has been for reduced taxes. The only way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenditures. The fire department service now to be provided will be immeasurably better than the present service. Bismarck is a growing, modern city. There must be improvement in the city's fire protection commensurate with this growth. When business conditions have been readjusted, the city's finances permit and her needs demand, it will be wiser and more economical to have a new fire truck.

ing apparatus and the employment of firemen all of whom can be on duty day and night.

RESULTS GRATIFYING

Those women who have been responsible for milk distribution in the schools are gratified with the results. Children under weight in many instances have reached a normal standard and an improvement in scholarship is noticeable in many instances where children have not been properly nourished.

Students from families able to pay for milk twice a day have availed themselves. Underweight is not restricted to pupils coming from homes unable to furnish the best of diet. In fact children from families able to supply every material element necessary to an ideal diet are under weight and need this extra nourishment daily.

There has been a solicitation of funds to purchase milk for needy children. This work is to be commended and shows the proper cooperation between the school and the home. Probably even greater results could be obtained in increasing the efficiency of Bismarck's schools if a Parent and Teachers' Association were formed.

Such mutual organizations have functioned effectively in many cities and form a clearing house for both teachers and parents and often iron out differences that can be handled in no other way.

The women who have taken up the question of a school nurse, the doctors interested in medical examinations and oral hygiene and others who from time to time have interested themselves in school problems could work efficiently through some such an organization.

A SIGNIFICANT CONFERENCE

Irrigation in western North Dakota is receiving intensive study by engineers who have sensed the great possibilities in this section of the state. The conference called for this city tomorrow is one that should focus attention of thoughtful men upon the great opportunity that is before the people of the state.

The men who framed the constitution had possible irrigation projects in mind when they wrote the following section into the organic law of the state.

"All flowing streams and natural water courses shall forever remain the property of the state for mining, irrigation and manufacturing purposes."

Major J. W. Powell, director of the United States Geological Survey, in an address before the Constitutional convention at Bismarck in 1889, urged that such a provision be incorporated in the constitution.

How North Dakota streams in sections where rain fall is not adequate to insure continuous fertility of soil, can be utilized will be discussed at the conference. Out of such a meeting great good may come. Western North Dakota can benefit most from a thorough investigation of irrigation. Land contiguous to the Missouri and other streams according to the best engineers can be benefited by a scheme of irrigation.

All power to the men behind the irrigation conference. Every citizen of the State should be vitally interested.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

MUD AS A DEFECT

A West Virginia educator at the National Education association conference was asked what he regarded as the greatest defect in American education and he said in his district it was mud. Bad roads can be the greatest defect in any community. They can be the greatest defect in education when they do not permit the regular attendance of children in school. They can be the greatest defect in farming, when they do not permit the moving of crops. They can be the greatest defect in any kind of activity when they prevent the communication needed.

A bad road is a bad road whether it is a bad street car system, a bad steam road or a mud road in the country.—Chicago Tribune.

BRIDES MUST BE COOKS

Burgomaster Rimmel of New Ulm, in Bavaria, refused a few days ago to marry a couple because the girl did not know how to cook and keep house and has since laid down the rule that hereafter he will not perform the ceremony for any couple until satisfactory proof of the bride's ability as a housewife is presented.

This idea will probably make more headway in Germany than it would in America. Kaiser Wilhelm's idea of woman's sphere was "Church, kitchen and children," and this doctrine was so thoroughly taught during his reign that it probably remains the prevalent German attitude.

It cannot be denied, however, that there is something in the burgomaster's edict for every country to think about. When a man marries, he is presumed to know how to do something that will bring in enough money to support a home. In almost every case, he does know. But there are many cases, in which the girl does not know how to prepare even the simplest of meals, or how to do ordinary housework, much less make any of

GOING, GOING—

Sabre did not know how over- wrought he was. "Hullo," he was at home again and came to Mabel seated at breakfast.

Mabel looked up from her breakfast. "Well, 'Edo Ahhh—' This was the beginning of it. He felt himself digging his nails into the palms of his hands. 'I've been up with old Mrs. Perch. I was with her when she died. It's upset me a bit.'"

"I don't wonder. If you ask me, I think it was very extraordinary your being there. If you ask me, I think it was very funny of that Miss Bright sending for you at that hour of the night. Whichever should she send for you of all people?"

"I was their greatest friend." "Yes, I know you always liked them. But you couldn't be of any use. I must say I do think people are very funny sometimes. If Miss Bright had done the right thing as we are their nearest neighbors, she would have sent and asked me if I could let one of the maids go over and be with her. Then you could have gone up, too, if you'd wished and could have come back again. I don't think she had any right to send for you."

He had sat down and was about to pour himself out some tea. He put down the teapot and got up. "Look here, do me a favor. They're dead, both of them. Don't say anything more about them. Don't mention the subject again. For God's sake!"

He went out of the house and got his bicycle and set out for the office. At the top of the Green he passed young Pinnock, the son of Pinnock's Stores. Some patch of color about young Pinnock caught his eye. The color was a vivid red crown on an arm. The badge of the recruits enrolled under the Derby enlistment scheme. He dismounted. "Hullo, Pinnock. How on earth did you get that arm? I thought you'd been rejected about forty times?"

Young Pinnock grinned hugely. "Don't matter if you've got both feet in, or head and shoulders neither, over at Chovensbury today. Mr. Sabre. There's such a rush of chaps to get in before they make conscripts of 'em they're fair letting anybody through."

Sabre turned his front wheel to the Chovensbury road.

CHAPTER VIII

Life, when it takes so giant a hand in it, puppet-show as a upturn a cauldron of world war upon the puppets may be imagined biting its fingers in some changing at the little result in particular instances. As vegetation beneath snow, so individual development beneath universal calamity. Nature purges; individual life perishes.

Sabre was called up in his Derby Class within eight weeks of his enlistment—at the end of February, 1918. He was nearly two years in the war; but his ultimate encounter with life awaited him, and was met at Penny Green. It might have been reached precisely at its was reached without agency of the war, certainly without participation in it. Of the interval only those few events ultimately mattered which had connection with his life at home. They seemed in the night of the war transient as falling stars; they proved themselves lodestars of his destiny.

He first went to France, in one of the long string old Service Battalions that had sprung out of the Pinks, in the June following his enlistment. Mabel had decided to get a maid some ways—and she had arranged to have "that girl, Miss Bright," Sabre, reading her letters, exclaimed aloud. "By Jove, that's good. I am glad!" And he thought, "Jolly little Mabel! That's splendid." He somehow liked immensely the idea of maligning Bright Effie about the house. He thought, "I wish she could have been in long ago, when I was there. It would have made a difference. Someone between us. We used to work on one another's nerves. Pretty little Effie! Like a jolly little sister."

He was writing regularly to Nona and regularly hearing from her. He never could quite make out where she was, addressing her only to her symbol in the Field postoffice. She was car driving and working very long hours. There was one letter that he never posted but of the existence of which he permitted himself to tell her. "I carry it about with me always in my Pay-book. It is addressed to you. If ever I get outed it will go to you. In it I have said everything that I have never said to you but that you know without my saying it. There'll be no harm in your hearing it from my own hand if I'm dead. I keep on adding to it. Every time we come back into rest. I add a little more. It all could be said in the three words we have never said to one another."

And she wrote, "Marko, I can read your letter, every line of it. I be awake, Marko, and imagine myself— word by word, line by line; and word by word, line by line, in the same words and in the same lines, I answer it. So when you read it to yourself to me, Oh, Marko—"

Early in December he wrote to Mabel:

"A most extraordinary thing has happened I'm coming home! I've suddenly been told that I'm one of five men in the battalion who have been selected to go home to an Officer Cadet battalion for a commission. Don't jump to the conclusion that I'm the Pride of the Regiment or anything like that. It's simply due to two things: one that this is not the kind of battalion with many men who would think of taking commissions; the other that both my platoon officer and the captain of my company happen to be Old Thiburians and, as I've told you, have often been rather decent to me. I hope to be home on the third and I go to the Cadet battalion, at Cambridge, on the fifth."

IV

He made rather a boisterous entry into the house on his arrival, arriving in the morning before breakfast. He entered the hall just after eight o'clock and announced himself with a loud, "Hullo, everybody!" and thumped the butt of his rifle on the floor. An enormous crash in the kitchen and a shriek of "It's the master!" heralded the tumultuous discharge upon him of High Jinks and Low Jinks. Effie appeared from the dining room. He was surrounded and enthusiastically shaking hands. "Hello, you Jinkses! I'm this ripping?" By Jove, High and Low—it's famous to see you again, Hullo, Effie. Just fancy you being here! How jolly fine eh? Where's the Mistress? Not down yet? I'll go up. Low Jinks—Low Jinks, I'm dashed if you arn't crying!"

He broke off. "Hullo, Mabel! Hullo! Did you get my letter? I'm coming up."

Mabel was in a wrapper at the head of the stairs. He ran up. "I'm simply filthy. "Do you mind?" He took her hand.

She said, "I never dreamt you'd be here at this hour. How are you, Mark? Yes, I got your letter. But I never expected you till this evening. It's very annoying that nothing is ready for you."

Just the same, Mabel! But he wasn't going to let her be the same! He had made up his mind to that as he had come along with eager strides from the station.

V

But the three days at home were marred by the discovery that his suspicion was well founded; she was bullying Effie. He began to notice it at once. Effie, with whom he had anticipated a lot of fun, was different; not nearly so bright; subdued; her eyes, not always, but only by occasional flashes, sparkling that intense appreciation of the oddities of life that had so much attracted him in her. Yes, dash it, Mabel was treating her in a rotten way. Bullying. No, it was not exactly bullying. It was snubbing, a certain acid quality always present in Mabel's voice when she addressed her—that and a manner of always being what he thought of as "at her."

In March he came back, a second Lieutenant; and immediately, when in time to come he looked back, things set in train for that ultimate encounter with life which was awaiting him.

He went over for one visit to the office at Tidborough. Not so much enthusiasm greeted him as to encourage a second Twynning and Mr. Fortune were immersed in adapting the workshops to war work for the government. And it was made sufficiently clear to Sabre that, so long away and immediately to be off again, there could be no interest for him in the enterprise.

He rose to go. "I only called in to show off my officer's uniform."

Twynning said, "Yes, congratulations again, old man!" He laughed. "You mustn't think you're going to have Harold saluting you though. If you ever meet. He's getting a commission, too." His manner, directly he began to speak of Harold, changed to that enormous affection and admiration for his son which Sabre well remembered on the occasion of Harold joining up. His face shone, his mouth trembled with loving pride at what Harold had been through and what he had done. And he was such a good boy—wrote twice a week to his mother and once when he was sick in the hospital the Padre of his battalion had written to say what a good and sterling boy he was."

Extraordinary different Twynning the father of Harold, and Twynning in daily relations.

VI

His leave drew on. He spent his time in long walks alone and, whenever they were possible, in the old evenings with Fergus. In Mabel's absence he and Effie were much thrown together. Mabel frequently came upon them thus together, and when she did she had a mannerism that somehow seemed to suggest "catching" them together. And sometimes she used that expression.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The path that led down into Curlew Valley was very steep. In spite of the Green Shoes, the Twins stumbled at almost every step and loose stones and gravel, roots and brambles tripped them constantly.

The path was as crooked as its name, too, and turned this way and that in the craziest fashion. It was so very crooked that Nancy and Nick sometimes almost met themselves coming back. It would go in circles like a watch spring, then take a sudden turn and unwind, and when at last they were sure they had come to the end and would soon be out of the valley, they found themselves at precisely the same place they had started.

At last they came to two lovely rose vines climbing over tall gate posts and between them swung a cute little gate.

"Welcome," said a sign in bright gold letters on an arch overhead.

"This must be the postern gate the dove told us about," said Nancy. "Let's go in. It must be the way out of Curlew Valley."

"All right, go ahead," said Nick, holding the gate open for his sister.

But before Nancy had time to put a foot across the threshold, the dove suddenly fluttered down onto a rose vine.

"Stop," he called excitedly. "This gate leads to the Garden of Snarres. If you enter you cannot leave for twenty-nine years. Be on your way."

"Patience brings its own reward," cooed the dove, flying off.

So the Twins stood on their dazed journey. Uphill, downhill, twisting, turning, circling went the path!

Suddenly the dove flew down, he said. The postern gate is before you," he said. A little, crooked, weather-worn door swung open and the Twins stepped through.

Learn a Word Every Day

Today's word is HETMAN

It's pronounced -- het-man, with accent on the first syllable

It means—a Cossack chieftain, tribal leader in Siberia, chief, head.

It comes from—Polish "hetman," chief, from German "hauptmann," a captain

Companion words—hetmanate, hetmanship

It's used like this—"There is a movement on in the Senate to deport Gen. Semenov, the Cossack hetman."

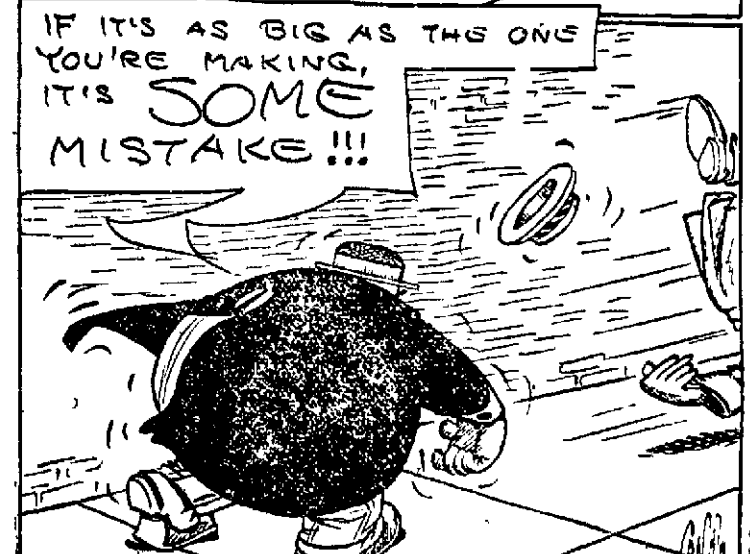

A Thought For Today

As we therefore have opportunity, let us do good unto all men.—Galatians 6:10.

The more irksome any habit is in its formation, the more pleasantly and satisfactorily it can be maintained.

TRACK, FIELD ATHLETICS ARE TAKEN UP HERE

High School Men Working Out—Possible There May Be Entrants in State Meet

Demark high school athletics for the spring season probably will consist almost entirely of work in track and field men. Coach P. T. Swanish would like to start a baseball team among the high schools in this section, a sport which has been neglected in the high schools, but because there are no teams to play and the season would be short it is doubtful if there will be a baseball team.

Lacking adequate facilities several men have come out for track and field work. Weight men and sprinters are being developed, and it is possible that Bismarck high will be represented in the track and field meet to be held at Dickinson Normal in May. Last year the high school sent several men to the state interscholastic track and field meet and they made a creditable showing. Lack of proper training and the lack of a cinder path has made difficult the work training men for track. Coach Swanish has corrected methods of several of the men and it is possible that there may be developed a team which may be sent to the state meet.

Few U. S. Golfers Will Enter British Open

English golfers are not going to be bothered by an American invasion this year unless there is a last-minute change of plans.

At this time a year ago preparations were being made to send an amateur and professional team to compete in the big English tournaments.

Right now it looks as if Walter Hagen would be the only American representative in the British open this season.

Hagen is a free lance, has the time and inclination to go across, and has the desire to win the British open.

Jack Hutchinson has practically decided that he will not defend his title as British open champion.

Hutchinson and Barnes have just finished a punt of 10,000 miles.

During the trip they played 40 matches at 36 holes. This means they walked about 1,000 miles in addition to the 10,000 spent on Pullmans.

The upshot of it is that neither Hutchinson nor Barnes is very keen for the trip. They feel that they have been overgolfed and traveled. In addition there is considerable expense entailed in making such a trip.

While neither of the two champs have definitely decided not to go, the odds are against their making the trip.

McGraw Holds Trade Records

New York Manager Leads in Pulling Off Big Deals

Connie Mack is a developer of ball players. Connie is also fairly strong on selling them for real cash.

John McGraw of the Giants is a "go get 'em" manager. When he wants to strengthen his ball club he puts over a trade.

McGraw is generally regarded as the champion trader of all times. No less than 92 ball players have been involved in his so-called big deals.

Charley Herzog has been McGraw's most traded ball player.

In 1909 he traded Herzog to Boston for Beals Becker. In 1911 he sent Bridwell and Hank Gowdy to Boston for Herzog. In 1914 he traded Herzog and Catcher Hartley to Cincinnati for Bob Bescher.

In 1917 he decided he again needed Herzog to bolster up his infield and sent Rousch, McKechnie and Mathewson to Cincinnati for Herzog.

In 1918 he traded Herzog to Boston for Larry Doyle and Jesse Barnes and cash.

Johnson Starts Fifteenth Year

Great Pitcher Hopes to Equal Cy Young's Record

The season of 1922 marks the fifteenth campaign of Walter Johnson as a member of the Washington club of the American League.

Unless it is Christy Mathewson, no pitcher in the history of baseball is a greater favorite with fandom.

In every year that he has been connected with the Nationals the work of Johnson has been the outstanding feature of the team's showing.

Two or three years back it looked as if Johnson was slipping. Trouble with his arm robbed him of some of his old-time speed. Many of the experts said he was through.

Johnson, however, has come back strong, and expresses the belief that he has at least five years more of service as a big leaguer.

During his connection with the American League Johnson has chalked up 429 victories. He would like to eclipse the record of Cy Young, but has his doubts as to his ability to turn the trick.

The pleasing thing about Johnson is that success has in no way changed him. He is beloved by every ball player, the highest tribute that could be paid a player.

Ty Cobb, Jr., To Shortly Enter Enter Princeton

The name of Cobb in the near future will probably help to uphold the traditions of Princeton.

Ty Cobb Jr., son of the great and only Ty Cobb, plans to enter Princeton. He aspires to shine as a pitcher.

This will be good news to the Tiger athletic authorities as a Cobb in baseball means something. His ambition to so shine is not surprising, since Ty Sr. always worked out at pitching in practice and says he should have tried twirling instead of outfielding.

Blood will tell, and it looks as if the Blue of Yale and the Crimson of Harvard will have something to worry about when Cobb is announced as the Princeton pitcher.

How McGraw Decides Player Is Shipping

Eddie Collins is generally considered baseball's greatest second baseman.

The White Sox and Giants played a spring series of 12 games prior to the opening of the season.

The Sox surprised the world's champs by breaking even. The work of Eddie Collins featured every game in which he played.

Prior to one of the final games, John McGraw and Kid Gleason were watching the White Sox indulge in fielding practice.

"Collins is shipping," remarked McGraw to Gleason.

"How do you figure that?" asked Gleason, who rates Collins so far ahead of all other players there is no comparison.

"Why look at him, he's getting a double chin," answered McGraw. "The double chin is a sure sign of going the other way. Once it makes its appearance they fall off in fielding and hitting."

At this juncture Collins made a long dive and speared a liner back of second base with his gloved hand.

"Wish all my athletes would hurry and develop a double chin," lazily replied Gleason.

FERRY TO RUN LATE FOR FIGHT

The Red Trail ferry will run until 11:30 o'clock Friday night, for the convenience of Bismarck fans who want to attend the boxing matches to be held in the Mandan Fair Grounds arena. It was announced today by Fred Krause, Jr., manager of "Bat" Krause, who is to meet "Buddy" McDonald. It is possible also that the boxing match will be started earlier than it had been called for to permit Bismarck people to return to attend a dance.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP Here's Your Decision

If a batsman bat out of order, and the mistake be discovered before a ball has been pitched to the succeeding batsman, the umpire shall declare the proper batsman out. If the improper batsman has reached first base or any base he shall be removed. No base runners can advance on any act of an improper batsman. They are entitled to return to their bases without liability to be put out.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME

REMEMBER—

If a base runner is called out for running out of line or for interference, assists should be credited to every player who handled the ball prior to the umpire ruling the runner out. Only one assist is given each player, no matter how often he handles the ball.

$80,000 BONDS APPROVED

Alexander, N. D., April 19.—The Alfred school district has approved the issuance of $80,000 of school bonds to take up outstanding warrants.

The district also voted to increase its debt limit from 5 to 10 percent of the assessed valuation of the district. The district is awaiting the outcome of a test case, to determine whether it may actually bond for more than the five percent limit prescribed prior to the adoption of a constitutional amendment. The question of the going into effect of which is now in doubt.

GYMNASTIC AT 70—LEARNED TO SWIM AT 60

"I Take The Gymnasium Work Because It Keeps Me Young," She Says

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—Mrs. Sarah C. Conrad attends gymnasium classes and plays basketball at the age of 70, and learned to swim when she was 60. She is wife of John F. Conrad, president of a grocery company here. The couple recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

"I take the gymnasium work because it keeps me young," Mrs. Conrad explained.

"Although I am by far the oldest woman in the class, I get along as well or even better than some of the women who are much younger. Most old people are feeble, not because of their advanced age, but because they do not exercise their bodies," she declared.

"I began going to gymnasium when I was 57. I had been a member of a turnverein when I was a girl, but while I was tearing my family I was too busy to attend. Since I have started the work I have attended gymnasium regularly twice a week.

"In our class we are given calisthenics and dancing by the instructor, after which we play basketball, volleyball or cage ball. I like all of these sports. They require agility, and I find no difficulty in getting around, the floor as easily as the younger women.

"After the game, if there is time, I go for a swim in the pool. I took up swimming ten years ago upon my doctor's advice as a cure for nervousness. I find it helps me a great deal."

MINNESOTA BANK CLOSES
St. Paul, April 19.—The Scandinavian-American State bank of Badger, Roseau county, closed its doors, voluntarily Saturday morning, April 15. R. B. Rathbun, state superintendent of banks, announced today. The bank is capitalized at $10,000 and has a surplus of $10,000. Its deposits approximate $225,000. According to the bank department's records, A. D. Stephens is president; L. C. Wang, vice-president, and K. T. Wang, cashier. Mr. Stephens is also president of the Merchants National bank of Crookston. The bank closed because of frozen assets.
